STATEMENT OF PURPOSE & PRINCIPLES

National BIWAYS is produced by the Australian Bisexual Network to inform its audience about social, political and personal issues relevant to bisexuality and bisexual people, to provide a forum for exchanging opinions and sharing experiences, to link up with and support geographically or socially isolated bisexual people, to foster the Bisexual Movement in Australia and to help build a diverse multicultural community of bisexual and bi-friendly people and groups in Australia and elsewhere.

ABN realises that bisexuality is inextricably linked to other identities (gender, race, class, etc). Our intention is that National BIWAYS will represent a broad spectrum of bisexual voices and images. We are committed to taking an active role in building a multicultural bisexual community free of racism, sexism, classism, homophobia and other forms of oppression.

Through self-examination and through the content of this news magazine, we will endeavour to challenge our own racism, classism, sexism (and our own biphobia) as well as that of others. We will work to create a supportive bisexual community and to promote equality and understanding for bisexual people in both the heterosexual and the lesbian/gay communities. We regard ourselves as part of a larger sexual minority (queer) community, a gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender communities and consider the fight for lesbian and gay rights to be our own. We advocate the recognition, inclusion and involvement of bisexual people in existing gay and lesbian and transgender communities, in lesbian and gay politics, in community development and consultations, in sexual health and HIV/AIDS issues, policy, research and education. ABN does not support the promotion of paedophilia or organisations that promote it.

We are sex-positive, recognising that we live under increasing sexual oppression. We support sex education for its own sake. We advocate the distribution of information and resources to halt the spread of HIV/AIDS, STD's and unwanted pregnancies. We support the rights of people with HIV/AIDS to be free of discrimination, to have access to information, housing and quality medical care and treatments.

We seek to expand, not constrain, the definitions of bisexual and we respect the right of individuals to define her/his own self-definition, identity and type of relationship(s), free from any social, political, religious or economic coercion. We support healthy relationships between consenting adults. We acknowledge the rights of partners, particularly female partners of bisexual men, to quality non-judgemental counselling and health services if needed, to greater understanding by all communities and to honesty in their relationship.

National BIWAYS is published at least once every two months. It is available by membership subscription, exchange, from various affiliated bisexual groups in Australia or through our international outreach work. The views expressed in this magazine are those of the authors unless otherwise stated. The inclusion of a person's name or photograph or business advertisement should not be taken as an indication of their sexual identity or sexual orientation.

The Australian Bisexual Network, Bisexual Youth Alliance, the Bisexual Community Information Service and National BIWAYS are unfunded and rely on your support to keep going. We welcome submissions of material for publication; assistance with production; involvement in Network and group activities, individual and community financial or "in kind" support.

Editorial:- Hiedi Ho there everyone, we hope you have enjoyed this last year and are ready for the Christmas Rush! ABN is prepared with a small reduction in events as many people are unavailable to hold events for us over this busy period, hopefully they will be back to help out again next year with some new faces as well. We would like to thank everyone who has helped out over this last year & hope they continue their support next year.

The numbers at the events are dwindling, for those of you who are not attending you're missing out on all the fun. To the lady who drove all the way from Bundaberg for the BiFem Spa night at Brenda's could you please ring to let us know you got home safely. We are trying to give a variety of events to keep everyone happy, if you have any suggestions we would be happy to hear from you. If we cannot supply it why not give it a go yourself, it's not that hard.

Our hearts go out to Gillian, Mick & Dalton, we hope Dalton can make it home in time for his first Christmas, he is doing well, gaining weight and size but still has a few hurdles to go yet. All the best Gill & Mick, we are thinking of you.

ABN requires a volunteer to be at the Rainbow Centre Coffee & Chat time on Thursdays to give Jewel a much deserved break, if you would like to help out please call Wayne, Bob or Brenda. Thank you in advance. If you would like to volunteer to help out for anything please call us, we would be happy to listen to your suggestions.

Due to the Christmas Holidays the deadline for the next issue for the National Biways is the 7th of December, 1998.

We hope you have a Safe and Happy Christmas. We will see you all again in the New Year.

Hugs,
Wayne, Bob & Brenda

MEMORIES OF BELLA

by Susan Davis, Executive Director, WEDO, 1998

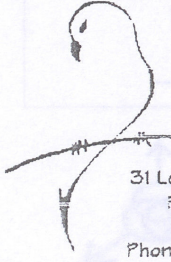

Bella Abzug was an example of world-class leadership, both in Congress and the United Nations. She was honored for her championship of the world's women, human rights, the poor and oppressed, and most of all for her people-nurturing vision of a healthy, peaceful planet.

BELLA taught these many lessons: Never work alone, Coalitions still require leadership, Civing is a gift, Use the power of forgiveness, Be able to admit you are wrong and change positions, Learn the rules, master them, use them, Be prepared - especially to improvise, Never hesitate to tell the truth, Stick to principles and don't fear being unpopular, Politics without love is hollow, pointless, Being diplomatic means being effective, not charming, Cherish your relationships, Love yourself, Never fear leaping into the void

IN DEFENSE OF QUEER

I recently attended a public forum at my local Gay & Lesbian Community Center on the issue of marriage and what it means to our communities. During the public comment and question section, a person stood up and said, "Let's not use Queer." "Let's not use any term that alienate us from those who would support us, or confuse the issue." It seems that Queer, a term reclaimed by our communities in the early 90s, is no longer considered an "appropriate" dinner guest to the table of our assimilation. He finished off by saying, "our gay community." This got me thinking. Did we forget the last 25 years of our his/history? The battles that women fought to be included in the boys club that was the "gay community". Where grudgingly, LESBIAN as a term was added to gay to acknowledge the role of women, and where issues such as reproductive freedom were finally deemed an important part of our struggle for human rights? Where in the early 90s, the BISEXUAL and TRANSGENDER communities had to struggle to even be considered to be part of "us." Where pitched battles were fought over whether even their own names for their communities would be included. Where they were told they could march, but not be named.

In our rush to gain acceptance (but not equality), some communities aren't yet even acknowledged officially at all, such as other sexual minorities like the SM/fetish communities or intersexuals; who without their consent are forced into the gender binary we call male/female. Can we really boil it all down to that for us to gain allies, we must jettison the diversity that is the REALITY of our community? Can we erase the last 25 years and just go back to the term "gay"? With that logic, why not go back to the previous attempt at relating to the mainstream, and use "homophile"? Can't we keep moving forward instead of going back? Can't we instead celebrate the diversity that makes up our lives; including our chosen families that don't always "fit" the traditional monogamous model. Where we truly include the majority of people in this world, People Of Color. Where youth and seniors are not relegated to either being silenced or made invisible. If we need an umbrella for us all, why not Queer? Let's not be afraid of ourselves. We should welcome support from outside of our communities. But let's not do the job of those who oppose our very right to exist. Let us name ourselves and speak with our own voices. I am a proud QUEER; in solidarity with all my brothers and sisters around the world, and I will be accepted as what I am, not who someone else want me to be.

International GLB Rowing in Switzerland, 1999.

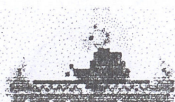

I am trying to organise 2 international GLB rowing events in Switzerland for 1999. I am in discussions with the SRV to make these officially recognised events which if happen and succeed will be repeated every year.

1) Spring/summer Regatta - The two venues in consideration for the spring/summer regatta are the Greiffensee, a place of stunning nature and absolute beauty, and the well known to all of us Luzerner Rotsee. Greiffensee is the first choice because there is a wonderful camping site with excellent facilities and excellent access from the motorways. The site is also brilliant for cycling with countless paths to almost everywhere both for mountain bikers and streeters. In addition this site is just 4 km from the major airport here in Zurich. There are 2 rowing clubs in the area happy to store boats plus any kind of motor boats are forbidden.

2) The long distance head - For the long distance head the venue is the lake of Zurich which has almost 34 kilometers of undisturbed water and is totally free of boat traffic during the and autumn/winter seasons with very good water.

Both events can very easily become money spinners for our causes and we can easily dedicate every year funds to go to a different cause or charity. There is, as I am sure a lot of you already know well, a lot of work involved to organise this, please can you get in contact with me if you would be interested with comments, suggestions, ideas etc. Anyone also volunteering to offer any kind of assistance will be mostly welcome.

Best regards,

Poem:

A Story To Sweep You Off Your Feet

Once upon a time, two brooms fell in love and decided to get married. Before the ceremony, The bride broom informed the groom broom That she was expecting a little wisk-broom. The groom broom was aghast! "How is this possible?" he asked "We've never swept together!"

Anon

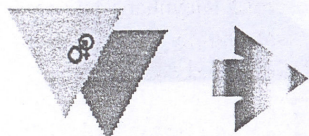

Telling your wife you're Bi.

I have known since the age of 14 that I was bisexual. The hardest thing to do was to tell my wife and lover of 7 years that I was bi. I had wanted to tell her for a long time that I was bi. A lot of thinking, soul searching and listening to people that have and haven't told their lovers of their sexuality. Their thoughts and what happened when they told their spouses I considered very closely. There were some happy stories of support and strengthening of their love. Stories of break ups and hard times by the couples involved. Thoughts of rejection went through my mind, the breakdown of our relationship and companionship came to mind as well. All I really wanted to do was tell the woman that I love with all my heart and soul about my sexuality. After all a marriage is based on love and trust. I thought that I was lying to my wife that she didn't know about my sexuality. I was sick of hiding my sexuality. Sick of surfing the Internet looking at guys and thinking Deb would find him attractive. Sick of secretly looking at guys passing in the street and not passing a comment to my lover that he's cute. So I decided to tell her. But when to do it was the question.

A lot of talking to people in a similar position as myself was done before the right time came. Well the time was right. We were having one of our heart to hearts that we do occasionally, when we are both feeling a bit down. So I told Debbie. I was expecting to be told to get out and don't come back. But to my surprise and delight all she said was "Why didn't you tell me earlier". I said that it's not an easy thing to tell your lover that you are bi. She said, "you don't know me very well do you. Were you expecting me to tell you to get out". I said that yes I did. She told me not to be so stupid. She told me that she loves me and she would never do that. It was time to open up. I told her about things that I have done. Absolutely everything. I was holding nothing back now. I was happy that I could finally say what I was feeling. Things haven't been easy since then. There have been a few tears shed, doubts in Deb's mind. Worries that I myself, think are silly, but to her are important. She was worried that I may go off and leave her for another man. Now it was my turn to tell her she is silly, and that she is the only woman for me. I said to her would you feel the same if I was looking at women. And she said yes. So I said what's the difference.

A lot of this stress I'll admit was my fault. I said to Deb that if she didn't want to know what I had done, that I wouldn't tell her. But she said that it's OK. Get it off your chest. But I didn't realize that it was hurting and confusing her to hear all I had done. After a good heart to heart and talking to two special people, who have helped the pair of us greatly, everything is fine. Let me tell you, after driving Deb to work that morning. I thought as I was driving off, "will I ever see my wife again". I shed a tear and thought of what I had said and the repercussions of it. But she rang me when she finished work to pick her up. What JOY and relief I felt, when I heard her sweet, lovely voice. Everything was fine. That was two months ago. I would like to thank all the people who I spoke to for their support and love. But there are a couple of people who really helped us through all this. I consider these people to be true friends and without their love, support, and being there just to listen, telling Debbie would have been a lot harder. And finally to my darling wife and lover Debbie, who is the best woman a bi guy could ever have.

POSTER BAN COULD KILL: GAY LOBBY

The rejection by the Australian Federal Government of an anti-suicide poster campaign urging young gay and lesbian people to be comfortable with their sexuality was an "appalling" decision which could cost lives, according to a homosexual lobby group. The West Australian AIDS Council poster featuring young people of the same sex kissing and urging young homosexuals to "trust your feelings" was banned by Family Services Minister Judi Moylan.

"I think (the campaign) has leant a little bit too much towards the promoting of a gay and lesbian lifestyle ... and not enough about suicide," Ms Moylan said. She has asked the AIDS Council to redraft the campaign developed by the West Australian AIDS Council and the West Australian Gay and Lesbian Counselling Service with a A$200,000 grant from the federal A$18 million National Youth Suicide Prevention Strategy. Australian Council on Lesbian and Gay Rights spokesman Brian Greig said Ms Moylan was promoting a 1950s argument that people could be recruited into homosexuality.

"She is placing at risk more lives because of her incompetence and her prejudice," he said. In May a House of Representatives standing committee report said sexually confused young people were at a higher risk of suicide. The campaign is the first in Australia to link youth suicide and sexuality and follows a parliamentary report identifying them as being at risk of suicide. "If we are serious about addressing youth suicide among young gays and lesbians then we have to give them a sense of self esteem," Mr Greig said.

The advertisement said sexually confused young people went through a difficult time. "These feelings are a natural and healthy thing, they are one more part of who you are," the poster said. "It's OK to question your sexuality, it's OK to be unsure and it's OK to take your time finding out. Many young people feel the same. You are not alone." Ms Moylan said the AIDS Council agreed the campaign needed wide community acceptance to work. "Parents need to be made aware these are often issues and families need to perhaps be more aware," she said.

"Our primary concern has to be saving young lives and that means that community has to come to a better understanding about the issues that give rise to suicide among young people."

INTERNATIONAL HATE CRIMES CONFERENCE 2002 Lesbian and Gay Anti-Violence Project Sydney, Australia

All around the world, governments, communities, organisations, and individuals are working to spread hate, to promote violence, to batter, to kill, to silence lesbians and gays. And all around the world, other individuals, communities, organisations and governments are working to bring to an end this hate, to protect and extend our human rights, to promote our health, and to ensure that the rule of law is applied equally, fairly and justly. With the Gay Games coming to Sydney in 2002 we believe this is a perfect opportunity to stage the first international conference on eliminating hate violence against lesbians and gays. The 2002 Gay Games will bring an estimated 15,000 international visitors to Sydney, attracting not only sports men and women but also human rights activists, representatives of NGOs and Governments from throughout the world, many of whom work in or have an interest in violence prevention.

Anger at planned gay law

The Beattie Government will include same sex partners, as well as de facto couples, in proposed legislation covering property rights when relationships end under radical law changes planned for early next year. Catholic Archbishop John Bathersby said it was another example of individual freedom "gone mad". If the bill is passed Queensland would join the ACT as the only state or territory recognising the rights of gay couples. A spokesman for Liberal party leader David Watson said he did not believe the bill would be passed by parliament.

The gay approach defence may be on way out

The State Government should amend the Crimes Act urgently to stop lawyers using allegations of homosexual advances as the basis for the defence of provocation, a controversial new report prepared by a working party appointed by the Attorney-General, has recommended. It also calls for the age of consent for gay men to be lowered to 16, in line with the age of consent for heterosexual men. It further recommends that judges should be formally reminded in writing that the courts are not "courts of morals", especially in cases where the sexuality of the alleged victims "does not conform with majority stereotypes". A similar recommendation made by the Royal Commission into police corruption last year was immediately rejected by the Premier, with the support of the Coalition parties.

HIV+ CANADIANS MUST REVEAL STATUS BEFORE SEX

People with HIV or other dangerous sexually transmitted diseases must reveal their condition to sex partners before having sex without condoms, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled. The decision came in the case of Henry Cuerrier of Squamish, who had sex with two women more than 100 times without telling them he carries HIV.

CANADIAN HIV-POSITIVE MAN CHALLENGES U.S. BAN

Canadian HIV-positive AIDS activist Richard Hollingsworth tried to cross into the U.S. at Eastport, Idaho carrying a sign that said, "AIDS does not discriminate but governments do." He was sent back to Canada. U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service policy bans the entry of HIV-positive foreigners unless they receive special permission to visit family, seek medical treatment or attend a conference. "This is a human-rights issue and a social injustice and we need to get this matter resolved," Hollingsworth said. "This matter isn't over, and I want to be at Eastport again."

An Australian in London pays high price for gay rights fight

An Australian who is Britain's most prominent gay rights campaigner has revealed the price he has paid for his high profile, being gay-bashed an average of once a month for the past 17 years. Peter Tatchell's latest bashing is the main reason for a new delay in his court case, for interrupting the Archbishop of Canterbury's Easter Sunday address with a protest from the pulpit of Canterbury Cathedral. Tatchell, head of the campaign group OutRage!, said in an interview. "It's like living through a low level civil war. Formerly of Melbourne, Tatchell said at his lowest ebbs he had considered giving away his campaign, which recently has centred on lowering the age of consent for gay couples from 18 to 16 to bring it level with that for heterosexuals.

Gays Test New Freedoms in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, The groom wore a gold suit to Saturday's wedding reception. The bride wore a white satin dress, a strand of pearls adorning HIS neck. Four years after apartheid ended in favor of racial equality, gays are breaking barriers of their own. Two men, married secretly by an Anglican cleric, plan to push those boundaries even further when they seek to legalize their marriage before a magistrate. "We put our hearts into this, and it wasn't a mock wedding," Desmond Kleynhans shouted above the din at his wedding reception. The pastor conducted the ceremony Friday night at a private home, declaring the couple married "in the name of God" after an exchange of vows and rings. "If word goes out that I conducted a gay wedding, I will lose my job tomorrow," said the pastor, a bisexual who was interviewed on condition of anonymity.

Hepatitis A Alert for Gay Men

Gay and bi men should be aware of and vaccinated for what was once called "holiday hep." Hepatitis B has long been recognized as a special risk for gay men, and the more recently-identified hepatitis C has been grabbing headlines, but the Centers for Disease Control (CDC) is now recommending that gay men be vaccinated for hepatitis A in the wake of an Atlanta, Georgia outbreak that began in 1996. Hepatitis A is an acute infection that usually lasts two to three weeks. It inflames the liver, causing flu-like symptoms and sometimes jaundice.

Ohio man's death may be gay-related

Suburban Cincinnati homicide detectives say a beaten and strangled 42-year-old bisexual man may have met his killer in a gay bar. Michael Carpenter's wife, who knew about his bisexuality, found his nude body Sunday on the bedroom floor of their home, his hands tied behind his back with a sock. The couple had been married for 12 years. Police Sgt. Terry Zinser said there were no signs of forced entry into the apartment, and that jewelry, the victim's wallet, and his car were missing.

Dianetics and homosexuality

This is to warn gays, lesbians, bisexuals, pansexuals, and other "perverts" (like me), as well as all people who care about gay rights, of the danger posed by the Church of Scientology. As demonstrated below, the Church of Scientology has determined that gays pose a grave danger to society. The Church has a solution. Gays can either be quarantined and institutionalized, or undergo Church "processing."

The Church of Scientology has officially determined that gays are perverts. In Dianetics, The Modern Science of Mental Health, L. Ron Hubbard, the Founder of the Church of Scientology, wrote: "The sexual pervert (and by this term Dianetics, includes any and all forms of deviation in dynamic two such as homosexuality, lesbianism, sexual sadism, etc., is actually quite ill physically." "Dynamic two is the urge of the individual toward ultimate survival via the sex act, the creation of and the rearing of children." See Dianetics, Book 1, Chapt. 4, at p. 43.

L. Ron Hubbard and the Church of Scientology have also determined all of the behavioral characteristics (beyond mere sexual preference) of "perverts" such as homosexuals. In Science of Survival, Hubbard established a "tone scale" for classifying individuals and evaluating human behavior. The tone scale ranges from -3 at the bottom (death), to +4 at the top. "Perverts," such as homosexuals, fall at 1.1 on the tone scale: Here we have promiscuity, perversion, sadism, and irregular practices." Science of Survival, Book One, Chapt. 18, at 116. According to the Church of Scientology, gays and other "perverts" are dangerous in the extreme:

One should not, and indeed cannot, trust a 1.1" gay "pervert." "The person may claim to love others and to have the good of others as his foremost interest; yet, at the same moment, he works, unconsciously or otherwise, to injure or destroy the lives and reputations of people and also to destroy property."

It appears that for Hubbard, the danger posed by "1.1" gay "perverts" cannot be underestimated. Society is faced with only one choice: No social order will survive which does not remove these people from its midst." The obvious solution is a simple one: "Such people should be taken from the society as rapidly as possible and uniformly institutionalized; for here is the level of the contagion of immorality, and the destruction of ethics;"

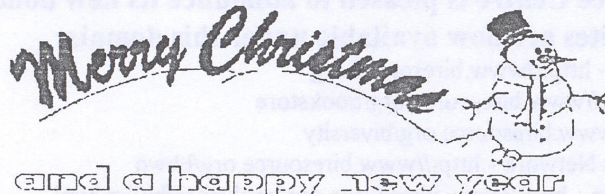

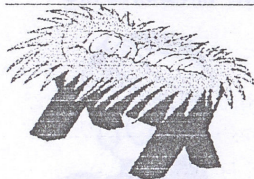

On the other hand, the Church of Scientology offers an alternative: "The only answers would seem to be the permanent quarantine of such persons from society to avoid the contagion of their insanities". Thus, the Church offers gays a choice. Gays can avoid being quarantined or institutionalized by simply undergoing Church "processing" to raise their tone level so that they are no longer gay "perverts," but instead have "value."

Religious Debate and Sexuality

The great religious debate has been going on for years in regards to sexuality, there are people who argue for and those who argue against. The Bible clearly states to "love thy neighbour", which means we should all love each other and accept each other for who we are whatever we wish to label ourselves. Whether I have a sexual relationship with a man or a woman is really nobody else's business but those in the relationship. Reading the Bible in context I have not found anywhere where it states it is against God's Law or that it is wrong to be gay, les, bi, etc.

The Bible is full of passages that should reassure queer people that they are part of the family of God. At the end of Romans 8 - Nothing can separate you from the love of God. The story of Sodom is a strange support for anti-gay Christians. If all the men in the town were homosexual, how did there come to be children there? The Bible quite clearly states that the reason Sodom was destroyed was their lack of hospitality and charity to the stranger (Ezekial 16). Its nothing to do with homosexuality. The fact that the men of Sodom wanted to "know" the strangers was an act of aggression, not a sexual act. And read to the end of the story - if Sodom was destroyed because of homosexuality, then why doesn't the sex between Lot and his daughters receive more condemnation? I don't think anyone in their right minds would argue that the incest in this story means that incest is OK??

In John's Gospel "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish but have eternal life." I don't notice an exclusion clause in there for those of us who are gay, lesbian, bisexual, transsexual, etc. There also seems to be a lot of differences between religions, for example the story about The Church of Scientology and their beliefs. Christianity in itself has many different variations. I have always believed that If you believe in God, are true to yourself and are kind to your fellow man/woman then there will always be a place in Heaven for you. God loves everyone no matter what you label yourself.

All the best Bob & Brenda

THE BISEXUAL RESOURCE CENTER

The Bisexual Resource Centre is a not-for-profit corporation dedicated to providing information and educational resources to bisexual groups around the world. The centre has hosted six regional conferences on bisexuality and three BiFests since 1984 and publishes the Bisexual Resource Guide.

The Bisexual Resource Centre is pleased to announce its new domain name: biresource.org

The following web sites are now available under this domain:

Bisexual Resource Centre - <http://www.biresource.org>
Bisexual Bookstore - <http://www.biresource.org/bookstore>
Biversity Boston - <http://www.biresource.org/biversity>
Boston Bisexual Women's Network - <http://www.biresource.org/bbwn>

Bisexual Videostore On The Internet

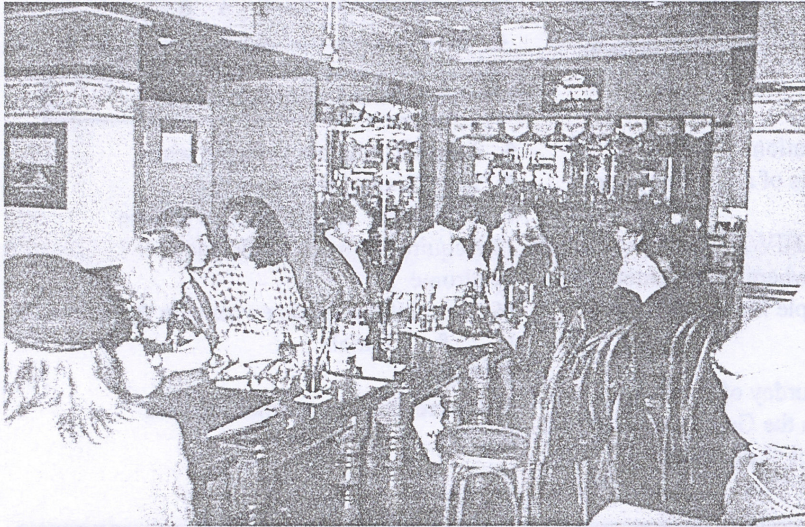

The Bisexual Resource Center in Boston is pleased to announce the opening of the Bisexual Videostore. In cooperation with Reel.com, the BRC will be offering videos with bisexual characters for sale or rent via the web. The URL for the Bisexual Videostore is: <http://www.biresource.org/videostore>

Many films with bi characters are in the theaters only briefly and can be difficult to locate at your nearby lackluster video store. This is especially true if you don't live in a large city. The videostore currently lists more than 125 films with bi characters. Several more will be added in the coming weeks. There is also a search feature available to locate other films in the huge Reel.com catalog. As with the bisexual bookstore (<http://www.biresource.org/bookstore>), all purchases and rentals generate a small "finders fee" for the BRC to help finance the work of the Bisexual Resource Center. BRC projects this year include the 5th International Bisexual Conference, a new edition of the Bisexual Resource Guide (to be released in January), expanding the biresource.org website, updating and distributing pamphlets about bisexuality, and maintaining the bisexual archives.

Eating Disorders

"People think those with eating disorders are rare, however, women who are content with their natural body shape and their relationship with food are actually the minority," Joanne Blair of the Eating Disorders Association said. While eating disorders are mainly connected with women it does affect the homosexual community. "I would say a high proportion of gay men perhaps up to 20 percent have eating disorders.

"Maybe one in ten maybe even less," Janette Hull of the UQ Eating Issues Support Group said. Ms Hull also commented on the fact it is a form of internalized sexism. According to research anorexic males display a considerable degree of anxiety with regard to sexual activities and relationships. Statistics comparing 29 male anorexics to 23 female anorexics showed the males displayed significantly more sexual anxieties than did females. 75 per cent of this group reported a high degree of "disgust" towards sexual relationships and several felt anxious about "getting involved too closely" It seems, according to research, bulimic males seem to be more sexually active than anorexic males. Eating disorders in males seem to be due to conflict over gender identity or sexual orientation.

Bisexual Thank You

My personal soapbox of the moment: The issue that I have found conspicuously absent from the recent verbal and print wranglings around . While I will freely admit that I haven't religiously monitored all of the relevant media, I was surprised that none of the talk shows I have listened to nor the coverage I have read surrounding the reactionary rights' recent ad campaigns have even once brought up Alfred Kinsey's work and/or the issue of bisexuality. There are, after all, a lot of gay-identified guys having sex with lesbian-identified women and straight-identified people who have had same-sex experiences. Why is it so necessary to choose a label for oneself and for others? I think that human beings defy labelling. None of us fit easily into these neat little categories.

Sexual behavior, if Alfred Kinsey and personal observation and experience are to be believed, is a spectrum, not an either-or proposition. I know that this is a sensitive, complicated issue, but it is so to the point and would certainly knock the wind out of that ad campaign. If both the Paulk's don't fit somewhere within the 2-5 Kinsey spectrum, I'd be surprised. If the non-celibate "ex-gays" aren't classifiable somewhere within the Kinsey 2-5 spectrum, I would also be very surprised.

Bisexuality is one of the issues our Dr. Sylvia Rhue has been dealing with in her outreach to ministers and other church people. In most cases, they have not been adverse to hearing about and considering the possibility that there is a whole spectrum of sexual behavior in human beings, and why that is both possible and natural.

ATHENS : A bride-to-be suffered a nervous breakdown the night before her wedding on the Greek island of Crete when she discovered the groom, dressed in her wedding gown, in the arms of his best man. The future husband and wife were celebrating at separate parties when the bride's friends asked to go to the couple's new home to take a peek at the wedding dress, the semi-official Athens news agency reported. When they arrived, they found the gown-clad groom locked in a passionate embrace with the best man. The young woman has been treated at a clinic in the town of Iraklion since the incident on Saturday, the agency said. The wedding did not take place.

BI STUDIES . . . AIDS AMONG BLACK WOMEN SEEN AS A

GROWING PROBLEM: For years, doctors and AIDS prevention activists have expressed deep concern for black women as their rate of infection has skyrocketed. Researchers point to the dangers inherent in engaging in unprotected sex with men who keep their intravenous drug use or bisexual encounters hidden--problems that some theorize are more pronounced in the black community, where the stigma of bisexuality is thought to be particularly intense.

Favorite Christmas Cookies

Go to the grocery store. Purchase one or more tubes of ready-made cookie dough. Go home.

Unwrap the cookie dough, carefully folding the wrapper inside-out and placing it at the bottom of your trash can. Better yet, bury it in the backyard. Cut off a portion of the cookie dough and smear it on a mixing bowl and spoon. Display bowl and spoon prominently so everyone can see your "work."

Slice cookie dough, place on cookie sheets and bake in the oven. But don't use a microwave because that won't work. I just know this...I've never actually tried it. I mean, you'd have to be pretty silly to stick cookie dough in the microwave, only to watch it melt and run together into one giant patty which explodes in three minutes. I've never seen this happen...I'm just supposing. Place cooled cookies on your hand-crafted platter* and serve to your guests.

SYDNEY & MELBOURNE

I'm a slim, shaved relaxed BI-BOY, aged 36 in a happy M/F relationship. I have dark, shoulder length hair and a smooth body. I'd love to make contact with other Bi-boys (age open) or groups who are into porn, sex-on-premises and other erotic fun. There must be some Biways readers into guys older 35! Videos and photography are exciting too and I'm also keen on nude swimming and sunbathing around Sydney area. I'm into most M/M sex and versatile, although prefer passive role with other guys. I could also get into kinky 'daddy' thing with the right older man. If any of this hits off with you e-mail me at: matthew@hotbot.com or reply to Code NS-L3.

PLEASE NOTE: Advertisements from bisexual and bisexually inclined people will appear for Four issues only unless renewed. Advertisements from Gay men or Lesbians looking for other same sex partners or from straight men or women looking for opposite sex partners will only appear for ONE issue unless they are members or subscribers. There are plenty of other avenues for gay men, lesbians and straight people to meet others. It is not that easy for bisexual people thus this service.

COPENHAGEN, DENMARK & LONDON, ENGLAND

STRAIGHT ACTING GAY BIKER with closeted bisexual leanings looking for another guy with a sense of commitment. I'm 39, 6', with a beefy build, discreet tattoos, blue eyes, moderately hairy and quite muscular (nice legs). My hair is always no. 2 or 3 crop, but I really turn onto blokes with long hair (as well as buzztops, skins and ordinaries). Biking is my passion, my life. I bike to work, bike on holiday, bike to go out, bike for fun. Leather is not so much a fetish as a lifestyle for me, but yes - I do wear it in bed sometimes too. Sexually, I like to dominate, but also to switch roles. To turn me on, a guy has to be masculine, straight-acting and affectionate. I like to drink, (rarely) smoke, do the odd joint and generally mellow out with a guy in front of a good film, some spacey music or even a hot video. Like longish, varied sessions in bed followed by warm body contact and a naked sleeping man besides me at night. I'm a top graduate, arty, creative, self-employed, financially independent and love reading, creative writing, travelling, computers, films, classical through to heavy metal and soul, as well as good food and drink, but also the outdoor life, walking and camping. I consider myself to be spiritual (what Scorpio doesn't?!?) and a one-off. Ideally, I'd like to meet a together guy somewhere between 25-40, not shorter than 5'10", beefy/athletic/muscular build, good looking and into light kink (uniforms, leather etc.) who has his act together but needs to find the final piece of the jigsaw. And you know what they say about the last piece - it never quite comes in the shape you're expecting. E-mail to Chris at: leatherbiker@writeme.com

Tidbits

Pasadena: Far too often, I hear bifolk complaining about how some gay and lesbian organizations almost completely ignore bisexuals. A lot of so-called bi-inclusive organizations don't really make an effort to reach out and embrace bisexuals as partners or equals. I often wonder if I'm listening to someone who's been active in encouraging organizations to be more bi-inclusive, or more importantly, working with them on issues of common-ground and understanding them on their turf. In concrete terms, what's in it for them to be bi-inclusive? My sense is not that most gay-and-lesbian organizations aren't opposed to bis, or even opposed to bi-inclusion.

In Queerdom, there are simply more goals to be met than there are people to handle them: AIDS awareness and prevention, fighting homophobia and discrimination, creating community, etc. Eventually, if enough bifolk are there getting things done, the point is reached where the word 'bisexual' is not merely an afterthought, but an integral part of the organization. It's simply not enough for bisexuals to demand inclusion. It's got to be earned. You can stand outside the gates and squawk on a bullhorn, or you can send polite notes and flowers, but there won't be a place for bis at every queer table until bifolk help with the cooking, the place settings and with doing the dishes.

The lack of a bisexual awareness is glaring. As many of said, no one is engaging, exploring the obvious bisexual angle here, that those folks who "may" be "successfully" "changed" "back" to straight (I call it scared straight!) are most likely those who are more in the bisexual part of the Kinsey spectrum and thus can be attracted to the other sex, while suppressing their same-sex feelings for awhile. I'm furious! Bill Irion (fwi@cco.caltech.edu) coeditor of BiAngles.

BI CELEBS...

STEVIE NICKS' stalker is Ronald Anacleto, just came out as Bi, saying that he can cure his homosexual tendencies, and she can cure him because she's a witch. He is stalking her too because he is attracted to her. Not the kind of role models we need, of course.

PAUL RUDD may have accidentally seemed to be coming out as Bi. He's appearing in Twelfth Night with Helen Hunt in the Big Apple and New York Magazine talks about how strange it is to be a gay icon because he's attracted to women, which is a surprise to all the men who thought he was gay.

JEAN-CLAUD VAN DAMME according to ex-wife Darcy, in the Globe tabloid, engaged in sex with his best friend and joined them in "kinky" foursomes with transvestites. She says he's HIV positive. He retorts, "It's a pack of lies" and she's trying to ruin his reputation.

ANDY DICK. "I'm not gay, I'm more wiggly."

Steel yourself ... it's the pierce de resistance

By SHANE MALONEY

Went to a piercing party the other night. Nipple rings, tongue studs, eyebrow grommets, nostril thingies, upper and lower labrets. You name it, it was pierced. This was in St Kilda, naturally. A few glasses of convivial, Neil Young on the stereo ("I've seen the needle and the damage done/ A little part of it in everyone") and a slide show of photographs of assorted piercees and their various perforations.

Like Mark, for example. "I wanted to be a bit madder than the next person," he explained. With 19 holes in the head, and others elsewhere, he is definitely nearing his goal. Our host, by comparison, was a paragon of moderation. Steven has only two holes in his head, apertures in his earlobes wide enough to stick a finger through, big enough to hold plugs the size of tap washers. "We'd like to put piercing in the public eye," he said. "It is getting to be very popular." Evidently. According to the results of a survey published last week, 8 per cent of Australians aged seven to 18 cited body piercing as their latest interest. While teenagers in Japan, China and South Korea expressed a commitment to hard work, clean living and obedience to their elders, our lot said they would rather have stainless steel skewers inserted into their fleshy extremities.

According to Modern Primitives, the bible of self-mutilation, was invented by Victorian-era tailors to protect the line in their fashionable crotch-hugging trousers. According to Frankie, who operates the Lord of the Rings piercing studio in Brunswick Street, demand has never been higher. He has installed at least 80 of them himself and estimates that more than 1000 Melbourne men are walking about with their tackle pinned to their underpants. Most contemporary devotees are less concerned with the drape of their daks than the additional stimulation they claim that genital piercing provides in the dirty deed department. In this respect, it is not just gay men who are having their goolies gimletted. Women, too, are lining up to have their whatnots fitted with assorted ironmongery.

Should you feel the desire, you can have it done for as little as A$150. For some couples, it must feel like they're having it off in the cutlery drawer. As for me, I am a recovered piercee. All I've got is this tiny little hole in my left earlobe. It's nearly healed over now, not surprising since I took the sleeper out in 1979. Strangely enough, back then, it never occurred to me to have a hole drilled through my tongue. Perhaps I should give it some thought. On the other hand, perhaps not.

Time Out

Dubious

Some men like Jack and some like Jill;
I'm glad I like them both;
but still I wonder if this freewheeling really is an enlightened thing, or is its greater scope a sign of deviance from some party line?
In the strict ranks of Gay and Straight what is my status? Stray? or Great?

Spring Fever

*In seasons Spring's the best of all
It's wonder seems to shout,
For now's the time all life begins the greens of earth now sprout.
We feel the wonder all around
All things begin to grow,
The still of winter's all but gone
Warm breezes start to blow.
The rains begin to nourish
All buds begin to swell,
The trees now start to flourish
The flowers cast their smell.
Anticipation starts to mount
We long to feel the heat,
To shed the boots, and bare our toes
Feel sand beneath our feet.
It's worth it all, the wait I mean
We know there is a reason,
For waiting just around the bend
Is Spring, my favorite season....*

Live Wire

These three guys go down to some Latin American country one night and get drunk and wake up in jail. They found out that they are to be executed for their crimes but none of them can remember what they've done.

The first one is strapped in the electric chair and is asked if he has any last words. He says, "I am from the Baylor school of divinity and I believe in the almighty power of God to intervene on behalf of the innocent." They throw the switch and nothing happens, so they figure God must not want this guy to die, so we better let him go.

The second one is strapped in and gives his last words. "I am from the University of Texas School of Law and I believe in the eternal power of Justice to intervene on the part of the innocent." They throw the switch and again nothing happens. They figure that the law is on this guy's side, so they better let him go too.

The last one is strapped in and says, "Well, I'm a fightin' Texas Aggie Electrical Engineer, and I'll tell you right now you'll never electrocute anybody if you don't connect those two wires."

6th International Bisexual Conference (IBC6)

"Same Preference, Different Lifestyles"

Call for Presentations The sixth International Bisexual Conference (IBC6) will be held in Rotterdam, the Netherlands in the summer of 2000. The conference theme is "Same Preference, Different Lifestyles." The conference is organized by an independent organizing committee in co-operation with the Dutch Bi Network. We are currently seeking proposals for workshops, presentations, papers, panel discussions, and performances in the following subject tracks:

- | | | | |
|--|----------------------------|---|----------------------------|
| * Activism | * Youth/Student | * Media/Culture | * Gender |
| * Bisexual History | * Safer Sex/HIV | * Sexuality | * Non-Bi Partners/Families |
| * Film and Video | * Organizing | * Writers/Literature | * Relationships |
| * Research/Theory | * Spirituality | * Personal Growth | * Computer/Internet |
| * Performance | * Track X (other sessions) | | |
| * Our Bodies: Differing Ability, Health, Image | | * Global/Regional/Racial/Cultural/Class Differences | |

The official language of the conference will be English; however, sessions in other languages will be considered. If you would like to present your session in a language other than English, please include that information in your proposal. Please follow the format of the proposal submission form below. Regardless of the language to be used during the session, please complete the form in English. The deadline for proposals is February 1, 2000. Send completed forms to: IBC6 Call for Papers, P.O. Box 75087, 1070AB Amsterdam, The Netherlands. Alternatively, you may submit proposal forms electronically by sending them to <presentations@lnbi.demon.nl>. This address can also be used to contact the program coordinator. Further information about the conference can be found on the worldwide web at: <http://www.lnbi.demon.nl/ibc6/>

Now that Rotterdam has set their Theme Title for the 6th IBC - "Same Preference, Different Lifestyles" - it would be good for our planning and seeking sponsors if we could decide on a theme title for the 7th IBC to be held in Sydney in September or October 2002. ABN is therefore seeking suggestions for the Theme Title for the Sydney 2002 7th International Bisexual Conference. Please e-mail or post your suggestions to ABN. If your theme suggestion is selected, ABN will award you with $50 and honorary membership of ABN up to and including the 2002/2003 financial year. So all you innovative bisexuals out there, lets get thinking and send in your suggestions.

Hugs Wayne Roberts

The Rainbow Project

Let me start by introducing The Rainbow Project. We are a bunch of LGBT people in Namibia, Africa, affiliated to the National Coalition for Gay and Lesbian Equality in South Africa. Our aim is to attain full and equal rights for gay men, lesbians, bisexuals and transgenders within our country. To achieve this we do a number of things like lobbying, encouraging and promoting civil social and economic activities, advocating, networking, counselling, etc. etc. So far there are two young people involved in the project, another guy and I. Maybe I should introduce myself. My name is Riccardo and I am 20 years old. For this year I am a full time volunteer for TRP doing a variety of things.

The reason for posting this is that we are trying attract more young people and thought that the best way of doing it is to start a LGBT youth group, where young people can come together and talk about all sorts of things, like how to deal with one's parents and the society we are living in, safer sex education, getting to know what our rights are and enforcing them and also simple but important things, hanging out, going camping so that LGBT youth in Namibia can feel good about themselves.

I believe that by doing so a lot of hard ache will be spared, leading to lesser suicides, fewer depressions, more people accepting themselves, to name but a few. If there is any such organisation out there please let us here from you. We need help in setting this up. What do you do, How does one reach out to LGBT young people in such a conservative setting. Anything or just comments, upcoming events in your part of the world, or just sharing news, we would like to hear from you.

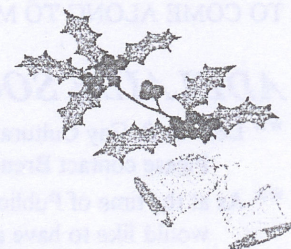

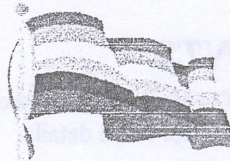

Yours

Riccardo

THAT'S NOT A SCARECROW

TIME MAGAZINE October 1998

Matthew Shepard was not openly gay. He was just himself. If people asked and he felt comfortable in their presence, he'd say "I'm gay." There was no flaunting it. After all, he was a freshman at the University of Wyoming in the Cowboy State, a campus where real men were supposed to love football and all-night parties.

Shepard, barely 5-ft. 2-in. tall and on a good day 105 lbs., preferred political debate and languages (German and Arabic) to the stereotypical masculine pursuits of his father's alma mater. Shepard said his jaw was recently broken by a man in a Cody, Wyo. bar who decked him when he realized he was gay. The closest gay nightclubs to Shepard's college are a 1 1/2 hour drive away and across the Colorado border.

Still, Shepard was comfortable enough to join his school's gay organization, comfortable knowing that some people were aware of his sexual orientation and most suspected it. Perhaps, despite his quiet caution, he was too comfortable.

Last Tuesday night, at the Fireside Lounge, a campus watering hole where he was a favorite regular, Shepard, 21, was enough at ease to strike up a conversation with two tall, muscular men, Russell Henderson, 21, and Aaron McKinney, 22, both high school dropouts. In fact, Shepard was comfortable enough to get into a pickup truck with them about midnight.

According to the police in Laramie, Wyo., the pair had apparently led him to believe that they too were gay. Police say the three were barely a half-mile on Grand Avenue, Laramie's main street, when McKinney abruptly pulled over and, apparently taking turns with Henderson, began pounding Shepard on the head with a .357 magnum revolver. The pair then drove about a mile east of town and, on Snowy Mountain View Road, they dragged Shepard out of the car. "They tied him to a post," says police commander Dave O'Malley, and as he begged for his life, they "beat him and beat him."

Perhaps as an afterthought, they took Shepard's wallet and his shoes. The back of his head bashed to the brain stem, his face cut, his limbs scorched with burn marks, Shepard hung spread-eagled on a rough-hewn deer fence through a night of freezing temperatures, unconscious and losing more and more blood. On the evening of the next day, 18 hours after he was abandoned, two bicyclists saw him. At first, they thought they were looking at a scarecrow.

On seeing his nephew's near lifeless body hooked up to a respirator, Robert Eaton told a reporter, "It's like something you might see in a war." The comparison was apt.

The brutal assault came at a time when the U. S. is buzzing with a dissonant debate over sexual orientation. It is a controversy fuelled by reports of increased violence against homosexuals and a new campaign by religious conservatives touting the power of faith to overclaim what they proclaim to be a sinful sensuality. The Wyoming attack came days shy of National Coming Out Day, which was heralded not only by gay organizations but by the Center For Reclaiming America as it launched a new series of TV ads avowing that conversion to Christianity can reverse even the most sordid of homosexual lifestyles. "Just because you love your children, it doesn't mean you approve of everything they do. Sometimes they make bad choices."

After the attack on Shepard, gay activists decried Reclaiming America's campaign as, in the words of Jennifer Einhorn of the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation, "a license to hate." They point not only to the proliferation of print ads deploring the gay lifestyle but also to a disturbing rise in bashings in safe havens, in Greenwich Village in New York and Halsted Street in Chicago. The Family Research Council, which partly funds Reclaiming America, condemned the assault but said gay activists were exploiting it to promote their own agenda. It stressed that the ads' message was "not about hate" but "about hope" and that "every crime is a hate crime..."

"He was never imposing," says Shepard's friend Walt Boulden, describing "the most gentle soul I ever met. He would smile at everyone." Boulden adds, "One night stands, that wasn't Matt. Sex wasn't his primary interest." He wanted to find love. But as he lay near death, Matthew Shepard, though no fault of his own, had found martyrdom.

BI CAMP 98

COOLUM BEACH, SUNSHINE COAST, QLD.

20-22 NOVEMBER, 1998.

The Australian Bisexual Network wishes to announce Bi Camp 98 to be held from Friday evening 20 November to Sunday 22 November 1998 at Coolum Beach in the heart of Queensland's fabulous Sunshine Coast.

We will be staying at the Maroochy Council Caravan/Camping Park, David Low Way, Coolum Beach which has wheel-chair access to amenities. Cost will vary depending on numbers of people and cars but is around $13 per day for 2 couples and $4 a head for members of a group. ABN is not charging for you to attend the Bi Camp and any bisexual and bi-curious people, their partners and families are welcome to attend.

There will be some "round-table" discussions/workshops but plenty of fun with such facilities as pub with bands close by, 10 kilometres of golden sand beaches running north from Coolum, beach and rock fishing, bush walking, mountain and national park hiking, nude swimming/sunbathing, shopping, safe flagged swimming beach, creek swimming, pokies and more. You may even wish to organise a particular activity or workshop during the Bi Camp, it's not hard. If so, do let us know.

Coolum Beach is located just over 1 hour driving time north of Brisbane and about 15 minutes south of Noosa Heads. It is accessible by bus from Brisbane, Nambour and Noosa, by train from Brisbane to Nambour or Yandina, by plane from Melbourne, Sydney and Brisbane to Sunshine Coast Airport just 10 minutes south of Coolum.

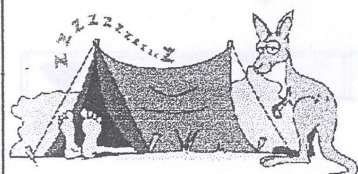

The Bi Camp will be BYO food and drink, camping gear, sleeping bags, etc. though we will have a communal tent for those without one. On-site caravans for those wishing more comfort are not available but are available at the Coolum Gardens Caravan Park across David Low Way from the council park. If you wish a van you must book this yourself by calling the Park on (07) 5446 1474.

If you are planning to attend you must RSVP your attendance and a $20 deposit must be lodged with ABN which will be refunded when you arrive and register at the Bi Camp.
